

MORNING APPEAL

TUESDAY.....JUNE 13

L. P. Fisher, newspapers advertising agents, 21 Merchants' Exchange, San Francisco, is our authorized agent. This paper is kept on file in his office.

A FINANCIAL DIALOGUE.

Goldbug.—Mr. Populist, you had better return to one or the other of the old parties, and be reconciled to fate. It was foreordained by the Almighty that the masses should always be enslaved by a dyspeptic aristocracy. In order to make your labor seem more dignified we have changed the name of slave to that of bondsman, and the name of slaveholder, to that of bondholder. Now if—

Populist.—That will do, Mr. Goldbug. I see your knowledge of predestination and fate is very limited. If you wished to keep the people in bondage you made a great mistake in allowing them to become educated. In order to hold a people in slavery it is necessary to keep them densely ignorant and superstitious. Your days of rule are numbered. This is the last goldbug administration that will ever govern the United States. You have been given too much rope, and your self-destruction is about complete.

G. B.—I wish you would explain more fully what blunder the goldbug aristocracy has committed that will cause its destruction, you alarm me.

P.—I see you are very ignorant of coming events and I will break the information to your deluded intellect in as gentle a manner as possible. You have probably noticed the large exports of specie from the United States to foreign countries. You have also noticed at the same time the enormous amount of American securities and leading industries that the Europeans are absorbing. You will also remember the speech that McKinley made in Nebraska last fall when he said that the balance of trade for the past fifteen years was more than $1,600,000,000 in our favor and that a mortgage was an evidence of prosperity. But you don't remember of reading in the goldbug press that the balance of trade, the expert specie, the securities, the breweries and industries of various kinds, all went on interest account, and it would only be a question of a few more years of goldbug rule till the bonded compound interest sponge, would absorb everything in the United States, goldbugs and all.

G. B.—You have given me a new revelation. I had no idea that Europe held such an immense mortgage on this country; how can we ever pay them?

P.—They don't want us to pay anything but the interest. Their game with us is the same one they played on Egypt, South America and Australia. They have made conditions which makes it an impossibility to pay according to the terms of the bond; hence they take commodities on interest at their own price and then scoff at their bondsmen for not complying with the exact requirements of the bonds.

G. B.—I begin to see how we have been duped. Us goldbugs have been obeying the commands of the Rothschilds with strict fidelity. I must immediately notify my fellow goldbugs of the alarming situation and have Cleveland and Carlisle modify their policy. Can't we compromise with Populists and agree on a half-way measure? It won't do for Cleveland to sign a free coinage bill; he would lose his reputation as a prognosticator.

P.—Half-way measures don't go. The country is in a desperate condition and needs a full dose. Tell Cleveland to humble his pride as a prognosticator, endorse the Omaha platform, and use his administration in the interests of American citizens. The Rothschilds are abundantly able to take chances with the rest of the people in the struggle for existence. Cleveland should decline further orders from the great bondholders.

G. B.—I am inclined to think you are about right, but it is such a radical change I fear it would result in apoplexy. The Rothschilds would doubtless survive, but the ponderous form of Cleveland would undoubtedly collapse. I see now that us goldbugs have been used as a cat-paw by the European bondholders. I wish the Populists were in full control of the Government. Good day.

P.—Good bye. Whenever you need any cold facts on finance, call around and they will be furnished free of charge.
